

Dear Bill, please pick up your phone to call New York, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama who have built huge bridges and freeways over large bodies of water, mostly salt water to find out how they do it. I laughed when I read the article in the paper about the railroad. Those states do not mess with culverts. It was a good laugh when the road was built to Antelope Island. So do your homework.

Annetta Taylor

Received via e-mail 12/23/12